

Ashish Gupta is an Assistant Professor, in the area of Marketing at IILM, Lodhi Road

Ashish studied at the Indian Institute of Management, Rohtak, where he obtained his PhD in Marketing. His research interest includes behavioural pricing; role of emotions in consumer decision-making; and application of social network analysis in marketing. He has published articles in the field of consumer behaviour and service marketing.

He also worked as a Technical Research Analyst at Data Tree Research, a campaign analytics firm. He has also worked on various consulting projects for corporates, Govt.of India and the Govt. of Haryana.