

Dr. Bidisha Banerji is an Associate Professor in Economics and Public Policy. She has been trained in economics and public policy in United States and India and has worked in international and national organizations like the World Bank, IFPRI and NCAER. She is the Lead PRME Coordinator on behalf of IILM for United Nations Global Compact. She heads the Dissertation program at IILM besides co-anchoring the PhD program. Her current research interests lie in international development, sustainable development, economic growth, public services delivery, urban infrastructure, foreign policy, migration and diaspora related issues. She has been a recipient of the Selective Excellence Fellowship and Junior Research Fellowship and was awarded the Best Faculty in 2020 at IILM. With her global educational background, Dr. Banerji brings in a distinct and diverse perspective of experiences and ideas to the management program at IILM.