

Dr. Kakoli Sen is a Ph. D in Management with 10 years in the Corporate and 17 years in Academics. Her professional skills include Academic Leadership, Developing International Collaborations, Institutional Advancement, New Program development, operations and evaluations. She has worked as Regional Training Manager with Intel Inc. and also implemented a Foundational Management Programme for IBM. Her International consultancies in Kenya include being an Advisor to a Vocational Training Institute and Organizational Development consultant to a Manufacturing and Project Management organization. In India, she has worked with prestigious educational institutions on Indian and British Education Systems.

She is invited as a Panellist and speaker to various prestigious forums / conferences. She publishes and presents regularly in national and international conferences as well as writes in Journals and on social media. Her papers and case studies have been published in ABDC Listed journals, Richard Ivey cases and Harvard Business Publishing. Her upcoming book on “Diversity and Inclusiveness in India Inc: Practitioner Perspective” is being brought out by Springer Nature. She teaches and trains on Organizational Behavior, Human Resource Management and Leadership areas. She received the World Education Congress award of 100 most dedicated professors in the year 2019.